40-Hour Basic
Work Week Provided
In Two-Year Pact

A new two-year contract today had been ratified by Harrisburg Merchants and Local 896, Retail Clerks International Association.

The contract was consummated Sunday by committees representing both groups. Merchants accepted the contract Monday and in an 8 a. m. meeting today at the court house, members of the clerk's union ratified the agreement.

Principals in the negotiations said the new contract calls for a forty-hour basic work week to be worked in five and one-half days for the same pay clerks in the brackets received for 42 hours under the old contract. This applies to the first year, the contract calling for the same forty-hour provision the second year plus a five-cents an hour increase in pay.

12 Negotiating Sessions

Another change in the contract provides stores will be open until 8 p. m. on three nights preceding Christmas Eve instead of two, as formerly.

There also is some change in contract coverage. Stores now can have an assistant manager where formerly he had to be a bona fide executive, it was stated.

The two committees had twelve sessions of negotiations before agreement was reached on a contract.

Guy Price business agent, and Louie Stricklin, local union president, headed the clerk's committee which also included Elmer Earl Wallace, Roy Metcalf, Mozelle Spencer and Blanche Summers.

On the merchants committee were Claude Winkelman chairman, Troy Hart, Dick Parker, Charles Shingler, Eli Lasersohn, and in the last two sessions, Phil Pittman.

Express Appreciation

In a statement following the acceptance by both groups, Mr. Winkelman stated that "both sides feel that although neither side got all it wanted in the new contract, we feel we have a contract we can all live by, which is the thing that collective bargaining is supposed to achieve."

"The merchants of Harrisburg," he continued, "have consistently paid their clerks up to or above the pay in competing towns and are continuing to do so because we feel we have clerks who are efficient, loyal and capable which are necessary to a town that has to depend on a great portion of its business from communities and areas outside Harrisburg."

Both committees expressed appreciation for each other's patience and restraint during the many long sessions.

Action to Take at Eldorado

Gardner Advises Hill He Can Fill School Board Vacancies

C. R. Gardner, Saline County Superintendent of Schools, today notified Gratton Hill, remaining member of the Board of Education of Eldorado Elementary School District No. 67, that the law provides that whenever a vacancy occurs the remaining members shall fill the vacancy or vacancies until the next annual election of school board members.

Gardner pointed to Article 7, Section 1 of the School Code in informing Mr. Hill of action to take following the resignation, effective Oct. 7, of school board members at a meeting Thursday night.

"Should they fail to act, with in thirty days after the vacancy occurs, the superintendent of schools of the county under whose supervision and control the district is in operation, as defined in Section 3-30 of this act, shall call an election within thirty days

Arnold Davis, 46, Dies While Working Near Eldorado

Arnold (Rosie) Davis, 46, RFD 3, Eldorado, died suddenly at 7:30 a. m. today of an apparent heart attack while working near the Eldorado reservoir. Mr. Davis was employed by the state and was mowing the right of way when he became ill. He called to a companion, but died before he could obtain medical assistance. He was known in racing circles as the owner of some race horses.

The body is in the care of the Bean and Tanner funeral home in Eldorado and will lie in state at 5 p. m. today in the home of his sister, Mrs. Marge Cooley, 729 Madison street, Eldorado. The funeral will be held in the Star General Baptist church north of Eldorado at 2 p. m. Friday. Rev. Ned Sutton will officiate and burial will be in the Lyndale Memorial Gardens.

Mr. Davis is survived by his wife, Lorene; his son, Billy Ray Davis; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis of Eldorado, and his sisters as follows: Mrs. Marge Cooley, Eldorado, in whose home the body will lie in state; Mrs. Charlotte Fox, RFD 4, Harrisburg; Mrs. Aleen Ego and Mrs. Mary Collins, both of Eldorado. There are several nieces and nephews surviving.

to fill such vacancies for the unexpired term," Gardner stated.

Says Action Regrettable
He said that N. E. Hutson, legal adviser in the Office of Public Instruction, Springfield, Ill., advised him that the power to appoint remains with one member.

The resignations came after the second and fourth grades at Lincoln school in Eldorado were reopened after being closed for a week and the pupils were transferred to Washington school for economy reasons.

Lincoln school area mothers picketed Washington school three days during the week, after which a conference was arranged between the board, a committee of Lincoln patrons and Gardner. Following the conference the rooms were reopened.

Commenting on the resignations Gardner stated: "It is regrettable that they have taken this drastic action at a time when the services of men of their experience are so urgently needed. I sincerely hope that their decision was motivated by their desire to act for the best interests of the schools."

He continued: "In paragraph two of their letter addressed to me they gave their reasons for resigning as follows: 'We are taking this action because you have demonstrated that we no longer have either your confidence or your support.'"

Accepted Invitation

"On September 25," a statement by Gardner said, "James A. Coleman, president of the Board of Education, asked me to attend the meeting of the board to be held September 26. I assumed from the conversation that the school board was honestly attempting to find an agreeable solution to a local school problem in which the welfare of 25 children was of the gravest concern. Because of the seriousness of the condition being created, I cancelled another meeting and accepted Mr. Coleman's invitation to attend and be

Probers Await Documents from The Teamsters

Hoffa Says Papers On Way After Being 'Temporarily Lost'

WASHINGTON — Senate investigators waited impatiently today for delivery of Teamster convention records to see whether they are getting evidence or ash-

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rackets Committee said a union attorney reported Sunday night that documents subpoenaed by the committee "had been thrown down the incinerator." The attorney blamed a night maid at the Eden Roc Hotel in Miami Beach, Fla., where the recent Teamster convention was held, McClellan said.

But Union President-elect James R. Hoffa said in Miami Beach Monday night the documents were on their way to Washington after being "temporarily lost." He said there was "nothing wrong."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy in turn challenged Hoffa or any other Teamster official to give assurances that the documents were intact. He said John F. English, union secretary-treasurer, "could not give assurance that all the documents were there."

It was not clear whether any of the papers actually had been burned. Hoffa's comment indicated they had not, but Kennedy quoted the union attorney as saying the committee could see for itself the documents had been in the incinerator.

McClellan said when the attorney was asked for the maid's name so that she could be interviewed, he reported that she had suddenly died of a heart attack.

"The committee will be interested in determining whether this incident is just another of the many strange coincidences that the committee has encountered in trying to secure Teamster records, or if it is in fact a wilful defiance of the committee's authority and an attempt to obstruct its investigations," he added.

The documents in question are records of the convention's credentials committee. The convention seated hundreds of delegates despite the Senate committee's statement it had evidence they had been chosen illegally.

PATH OF SATELLITE—This newspaper indicates (heavy black line) the path of Russia's earth satellite as tracked at the present. Its orbit is believed to be an angle of 65 degrees to the equatorial plane and is expected to vary (light line) due to gravitational influences and motions of the earth. Traveling at an estimated 18,000 miles per hour, the satellite is believed to be following an elliptical path some 450 miles above the earth at its nearest approach. Scientists calculated that the 184 pound device will end its brief life aloft in a few weeks and be destroyed by extreme heat when it begins to enter denser atmosphere as it loses its initial velocity. ### Navy Sees Serious Threat

Wilson Says Russia Still Does Not Have Intercontinental Missile

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said today that Russia still does not have an intercontinental ballistic missile in its arsenal and has not jumped ahead of the United States in the arms race.

The retiring defense chief told newsmen after a farewell conference with President Eisenhower that Russia's successful launching of a 18,000 mile-an-hour satellite has "not alarmed" him.

At the same time, however, the Navy said Russia's "known possession" of a 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile poses a serious threat to Western bases ringing the Soviet Union.

The Navy statement was made in a one-line comment by Capt. H. L. Miller of the office of the chief of naval operations, in a briefing for the National Security Industrial Assn. here.

"The known Soviet possession of the IRBM at present seriously prejudices our tenure of any base within 1,500 miles of Soviet launching sites," Miller said.

He did not elaborate. The United States has not yet perfected or put into operation its IRBM. If the Navy statement meant that Russia has operational IRBMs, it could mean a serious shift in the balance of military power.

Dispute Russia's Claims

Wilson told newsmen he stood by his earlier statements that the United States is not lagging behind Russia in over-all military strength including missiles.

He also repeated his belief that "it is some little time off" before Russia will have the continent spanning ICBM in its arsenal.

Many scientists have deduced that Russia already has a rocket capable of hurling a hydrogen bomb across the oceans to the United States. They said a rocket of this power was required to launch the 184-pound artificial moon into its orbit around the earth.

Wilson also disputed the statement of Soviet Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev that "the age of bombers is over."

"I don't think manned bombers are through in the near future," Wilson said.

Discuss Soviet Satellite, U. S. Program

Congressmen Call For Reappraisal Of Defense Policies

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower conferred for an hour today with ranking government scientists and defense officials on the Russian satellite and this country's rocket and satellite program. The meeting had not been on Eisenhower's published schedule for the day.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty declined to give any details of the discussion.

The conferees included Dr. Alan W. Terman, director of the National Science Foundation, which is in charge of the U. S. satellite program; Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles; two other government scientists, whose names were not immediately available, Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, Hagerty and other members of the White House staff.

Urge "Crash" Program

Quarles and Waterman remained at the White House for further conferences with members of Eisenhower's staff.

The meeting came amid congressional demands for a complete reappraisal of U. S. defense policies and calls by some congressmen and scientists for a "crash" program to catch up with Russia in the race to outer space.

Only Monday afternoon Hagerty had told newsmen there were no plans for a special scientific briefing for the President prior to Thursday's meeting of the National Security Council. He said the satellite program would be discussed at the Thursday meeting.

Hagerty disclosed this morning that late Monday Eisenhower returned from a weekend at his Gettysburg farm, directed that the satellite program officials be summoned to the White House today. A White House appointment for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and disarmament adviser Harold E. Stassen, originally scheduled for this morning was postponed until late afternoon, but no reason for the change in the schedule was given at the time.

No Statement Expected

Hagerty was asked if the White House conference meant any change in his statement of last Saturday that no speed-up in the U. S. satellite program was planned because of Russia's successful launching of its satellite. Hagerty replied that "as far as I know," his Saturday statement still holds.

He also said he did not expect a White House statement to come out of today's conference. As for Eisenhower's reaction to the Russian satellite, Hagerty told newsmen they would have to ask the President directly at his news conference.

Short Work Week

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The year 1958 is expected to be a big one in labor negotiations.
And a goal being set now by Walter Reuther, vice president of the AFL-CIO, is a shorter work week, presumably with no loss in pay.

But Secretary of Labor James Mitchell, a man organized labor knows to be its friend, thinks the four-day week or anything comparable is a good way off.

Mitchell's reasoning is plain.
He says, to begin with, that the shorter week can't be imposed upon the economy until, as a matter of of natural economic evolution, we are ready for it.

That means we have to be able to turn out all the goods we need in the shorter work period, which calls for greater productivity — more output per man. Mitchell, though no business pessimist, does not believe we have attained the technical level required for a four-day work week.

Reuther, of course, has never shown too much concern for the problems of productivity. As a labor politician, he is dedicated to holding union support by offering attractive new package proposals
at each contract time.

With the so-called guaranteed annual wage battle more or less won,
he must move on to new things.
The shorter work week is a spectacular goal.

Mitchell, a clear-headed analyst in the labor field, thinks the unions should be directing their efforts elsewhere, toward getting bigger pay differentials for skilled workmen.

We already have a shortage of skilled craftsmen in America. If they drew more pay, more people would be attracted to the various fields and undertake the necessary training. As it is, the lure is small.
It is hard to see, too, how a shorter work week—putting skilled men at home three days a week—would help the situation.

America's growing labor force needs thoughtful leadership bent upon serving its legitimate needs in an era of swift change. What it can do without is the kind of irresponsible leadership that simply dangles bigger bunches of bigger carrots in front of the workers each time major negotiations come up.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
World Series More Important
To U. S. Envoy Than Cuban Revolt; Hoffa Browbeat Two Top Teamsters Who Were Expected To Oppose Him. Justice Department Studies Hoffa's Testimony For Perjury.

WASHINGTON. — One of the most important countries to the U. S. A. is Cuba. It's important geographically; buys more goods from the U. S. A. than England or France, is vital as a supplier of sugar.

Recently Cuba has been in the throes of political turmoil. Things have not been too stable. Revolt has flared in parts of the island.
It's a moment when the United States should be keeping a watchful eye on what is happening.

At this crucial time, however,
where do you think the American ambassador to Cuba, Earl Smith was busying himself?

Ambassador Smith was very busy, far from Havana, watching the world series.

HOFFA'S TACTICS
It's no secret that the election of Jimmy Hoffa as head of the Teamsters was a deep disappointment to the forces of clean unionism inside the AFL-CIO, including George Meany. But it's supposed to be a secret that Meany had counted on two powerful executives inside the Teamsters to stand up against Hoffa. They were Einar Mohn, former right-hand man to Dave Beck, and John English, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters. Both chickened.

Here is the private conversation between Hoffa and Mohn which took place just before Mohn caved in. The reader can draw his own conclusions:

Hoffa: "What's this I hear that you are still thinking of running in this election for something other than vice president? Well, you go right ahead. I think, however, that it would be only right for me to tell you that I have already picked the man who will immediately oppose you (for vice president)."

Mohn: "Now, Jimmy, who is it?
Someone I know? You know that I have the votes to hang on to my vice presidency. What are you trying to pull?"

Hoffa: "I'll be blanketed blanketed if I tell you! But I will tell you that it's up to you. If you do anything other than support me, you are through. And you know that what Jimmy says, Jimmy means!"

After that, Mohn bowed out.
The man who tipped the scales
for Hoffa, ironically, was the man who was supposed to have been the AFL-CIO's white hope—John English. Meany had appointed

English to Dave Beck's seat on the AFL-CIO executive board. In return, English agreed to start a campaign inside the Teamsters to sweep out both Beck and Hoffa.
In other words, the AFL-CIO handed English the broom but he never did much sweeping. Meany gave him the broom out of his life for his failure to act, but English was up against one of the toughest operators in America. He came out 100 per cent for Hoffa, the man he was supposed to clean out of the union.

WHAT NEXT FOR TEAMSTERS?
Here are the repercussions bound to take place as a result of Jimmy Hoffa's election as president of the world's largest union:

Repercussion No. 1: William A.
Lee, the Teamsters 7th vice president, is expected to lead the anti-Hoffa forces into a new rival union under the AFL-CIO's wing. He has already received the unofficial blessing of AFL-CIO President George Meany. Other cleanup candidates — Tom Hickey, Tom Haggerty, and Congressman Jack Shelley — have pledged privately to join Lee in forming the new union. Lee's lawyers have been mapping legal strategy to prevent Hoffa from draining the treasuries of locals that may want to follow
Lee.

Repercussion No. 2: Hoffa will probably join forces with John L.
Lewis in a new independent labor organization. The two labor strongmen have already huddled secretly. Hoffa has also talked to Bakers' Boss James Cross, also under congressional fire, about throwing in with them. Lewis said he could bring in the racket-ridden International Longshoremen's union which has been feeding out of the mine workers' trouble. The Hoffa-Lewis labor organization would be a haven for unions kicked out of the AFL-CIO.

Repercussion No. 3: The Justice Department will try again to send Hoffa to jail. The Criminal Division is studying Hoffa's testimony before the Senate Rackets committee, with a view to prosecuting him for perjury. Hoffa claimed under oath he couldn't remember details that he later had no trouble recalling before the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee. The Justice Department is also interested in Senator McClellan's charge that most of the Teamster convention delegates were illegally elected.

Repercussion No. 4: The Senate Rackets committee will now take off the kid gloves and pummel Hoffa with all it's got. It will cross-examine Hoffa about certain deals such as the use of union money to buy lots in Florida to sell to union members. The committee will also try to put enough evidence in the record to prove that Hoffa was illegally elected.

The committee believes 75 per cent of the delegates can be disqualified.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

ers about a visit from Premier Gomulka of Poland. If the Polish groups in this country have no serious objections, the White House economy wave, are planning to re-enlist as corporals and sergeants.

They have only a few years of Miss Janet Lee Parrish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Parrish, 828 West Raymond street, Harrisburg, and A2-c Wayne Taylor Gooden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gooden, were married in St. Mary's Catholic church at 9:30 in the morning of Sept. 21. The Rev. Thomas Bruns performed the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with ferns and greenery and white candelabras bearing tall burning tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a floor length wedding gown of nylon lace and net over taffeta, fashioned with long sleeves and a fitted bodice. Her veil of nylon net was secured with a crown of tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, with white ribbon streamers.

Miss Delores Page, Chicago, friend of the bride, served as her maid of honor and wore a pink ballerina-length dress of nylon net over taffeta. Her headress was of pink net trimmed with pearls and her slippers were silver. She carried a colonial bouquet of white gladioli with pink ribbon streamers.

Miss Sue Parrish, sister of the bride, was her bridesmaid and wore a dress of pink net over taffeta, styled with an apron overskirt caught up with bowknuts. Her flowers were gladioli with pink ribbon streamers.

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

THE STORY: Tom Gillespie warns Sarah Casement not to continue her efforts to discover whether Grant Melville's death was murder. "Let the police handle it," he says.

The ease between them had evaporated. It was gone. Tom Gillespie was no longer on her side. He had switched his allegiance. If there was anything to be done she would have to do it alone. Anger sparked her. The idea of going home and sitting with folded hands was intolerable—there was something to do—and no time like the present.

The actions of the man named Dennert were definitely suspicious; he had been on the scene both before Grant Melville died and when Zita called from her window that morning. Mrs. Melville had Dennert's address, she had said so when he was leaving the sitting room—but not the Melville house. Get his address from Mrs. Melville and go and ask Mr. Dennert. boldly, why he had been searching Grant Melville's desk. He wasn't a man to be afraid of, and he couldn't eat her.

Sarah didn't succeed in going alone. While Gillespie was paying the bill she used the booth in the lobby and a puzzled Mrs. Melville gave her Dennert's address, but in front of the restaurant Gillespie got into the cab with her. He said, "I'm seeing you home," and she told him perforce where she was going. He started to expostulate, and gave it up. "Self-willed, aren't you?"

Sarah laughed and took the cigarette he handed her. "The word is resolute."

Dennert wasn't in his room on East Eighth Street. Sarah would have missed him but Gillespie's quick eye picked him up near the corner, getting into a cab with a brief case in his hand. His face, his narrow-shouldered figure, and above all the sad hat, were clearly visible in the light of a store window. His cab started north on Third. Tom Gillespie spoke to their own driver. "Fellow I want to catch up with in that car ahead! Keep him in sight, will you?" Dennert got out at Forty-third and Lexington. His feet were nimble and he was in a hurry. They followed him into Grand Central.

Mr. Dennert was running towards Track No. 14. He shot thru the gate just as it was closing. The train he had boarded was the New England Express, first stop New London, second stop Providence, and then the terminal in Boston.

Someone had tried to kill Zita at around six o'clock that evening. Now, at 10 o'clock, Mr. Dennert was leaving the city in a hurry for parts unknown. It was suggestive. Sarah said so. Tom Gillespie was intransigent, mildly derisive, and skeptical. "You can twist anything to your purpose. Maybe yes, maybe no."

Ten minutes later he deposited her at the door of her apartment on Thirty-sixth Street.

She didn't ask him in. He didn't seem to expect it; he was abstracted, remote. She unlocked the door with her key and turned to say good night.

He said, "You'll be all right now."

And she said, "Yes, I'll be all right."

What he did then was startling. Standing there looking at her he said slowly, "This is a calculated risk," and before she could move he bent and kissed her lips firmly. Then he swung round and without another word or a backward glance he walked into the elevator and the door slid shut.

Sarah was annoyed, amused, and stirred by his kiss and the manner in which it had been given. Tom Gillespie didn't look like a casual person, as though kissing a chance companion good night was part of his usual routine.

And, yet, that was precisely what he had done, gravel, and with determination, as if he had already decided in his own mind, after due consideration, that this was what he was going to do.

Inside, in the living room with the door locked and the curtains drawn, she wandered about in an odd little haze of warmth. One of the windows was open and the top of the little Chinese desk was up. Wind had blown an accumulation of bills and letters to the floor. She picked them up.

There was writing in pencil on the back of one of the unopened envelopes. She read the hasty scrawl. "Sarah—Where are you? Been here since four. Have to go. If Carlotta comes tell her I'll be at the hotel. Drank three cans of beer. Thanks, love—and come up, Steve."

Steve was Steve. Task and he and his wife Carlotta were old friends of Sarah's. They lived in the house next to her Aunt Grace's summer place on Cape Cod, and they had a key to her apartment, and had stayed with her once or twice when they were in New York, which was very occasionally.

Steven and Carlotta... Grant Melville... something was coming... When Melville walked over to his studio window just before he died his clean-shaven face had said nothing to her; when she saw his bearded self-portrait over the mantel weeks later she realized that she had seen him before but couldn't recall where. She knew now where she had seen him. It was on board a dragger owned by a friend of Steven's at the Blessing of the Fleet in Provincetown the previous June.

Her Aunt Grace had been there that day. Moving like a zombie,

Honor Freeburg Man School Board Member of Year

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Wilbert Schneider, Freeburg, will receive the first "School Board Member of the Year" award presented by the Educational Council of 1937.

Schneider will be honored Tuesday at Southern Illinois University during a semi-annual meeting of the Council, an organization of laymen and school officials interested in improving education in Southern Illinois.

An oil distributor, Schneider has been a member of the Freeburg Community Consolidated School District since it was organized eight years ago. He was active in the reorganization movement and instrumental in promoting a bond issue for the new Freeburg elementary school.

The award winner is a member of the Freeburg Parent-Teachers Association, the Freeburg Citizens

Sarah went to the telephone and called her aunt's home in Larchmont.

Education Committee, and the Illinois Association of School Boards. In the latter organization, he has been a director for two terms. He is married and has two children.

Schneider was among several persons in the 31 southern counties of Illinois nominated for the award. A committee composed of Rev. William Boatman, Murphysboro; Dr. Jacob O. Bach, director of Educational Research

Services at SIU; and Mrs. Jo Ann

Boydston, Council executive director, made the selection.

Purpose of the award, Mrs. Boydston said, is to recognize the community service performed by school board members in Southern Illinois.

The Council's meeting Tuesday will feature an afternoon business session at University School and a dinner at the University Cafeteria. SIU President Delyte W. Morris will be the speaker.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Merciful!

BY MERRILL BLOSSER

How good are you at bringing home the bacon?

Your family may consider you a model husband and provider. Your boss may say you're his right arm. But if your take-home dollars aren't as numerous as you'd like them to be... maybe you've been neglecting a good opportunity. Take this little quiz and see.

It's possible to earn an income from more than one business without holding down more than one job.

True. Plenty of people nowadays work in one business and earn a second income from others, simply by owning stocks or bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Owning stock makes you part-owner of the company. You share in any profits that may be paid as dividends... and if the business grows your money may grow, too. Or you can buy bonds and be paid interest for the use of your money.

Investing is only for people with a lot of money.

False. Two out of three shareholders today have incomes under $7500 a year... many, under $5000. But nobody should invest a penny without first being sure family expenses are covered and there's money for emergencies.

You have to be an expert to invest.

False. But you do need facts. Never fall for tips or rumors. Remember, security prices can go down as well as up, like the price of anything else... and a company may not always pay dividends or interest.

You have to know somebody in the company to get facts about it.

False. All you have to do is find a good broker. Make sure he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. He'll be glad to give you facts you'll want to know about companies you're interested in. It's his job to help you buy and sell. He'll be happy to sit down with you and talk over investments to meet your needs... either stocks or bonds or both... and from time to time you can ask him to look over your securities with you.

I'd need a big lump sum to get started.

False. For as little as $40 every three months, you can buy stocks on the Monthly Investment Plan... a convenient method of investing regularly on a pay-as-you-go basis. Your broker will be happy to tell you more about it... and ask him for our helpful booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." It tells about the Monthly Investment Plan and gives the records of over 800 stocks on the Exchange that have paid dividends every year for 25 to 109 years. This interesting little booklet is yours absolutely free... just ask your broker or mail this coupon. Isn't it time you looked into the possibility of putting your money to work to give you a second income?

U. S. Ready to Trigger Rocket From Balloon-Borne Platform

WASHINGTON — The United States is ready to recoup some of its losses in the battle of space with a rocket fired from a balloon-borne platform 20 miles above the earth.

As soon as weather conditions are right the air force will try to send a rocket soaring 1,000 to 4,000 miles above the earth's surface—higher than the Russian satellite or any other man-made device has ever reached.

Launching of the space rocket from a balloon over Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific by "Project Far Side" has been set to go since late last month. But scientists delayed it waiting for just the right weather.

In Planning Stage
If successful, "far side" may be interpreted as an answer to the newly launched Soviet satellite. But actually it has been in the planning stages for months.

Nevertheless it could restore a little of the prestige this country has lost to the Russians in the field of space science in the last few days.

A huge balloon will lift the rocket on a platform to a point 20 miles above Eniwetok to help free it from the earth's atmosphere. Then the rocket will fire, in four stages, into outer space.

How far will it go? Air Force spokesmen frankly don't know. With perfect conditions, it could even go 5,000 miles. But they said they will be satisfied if it exceeds 1,000 miles.

It won't circle the earth like Russia's satellite. The air force

Baby Removed from Crib Minutes Before Smashed by Man's Body

FOREST CITY, N. C. — The baby's insistent crying awakened Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mayse Monday morning and to quiet the infant, they took him out of the crib and into the parents' bed.

A few minutes later, a car out of control struck the Mayse home and the body of James M. Gordon was hurled from the car, through the window and into the bedroom.

The body smashed the crib to bits. Gordon was killed instantly.

of any assistance at my command. "At the meeting I was requested by members of the school board to give them the estimated school revenue for district No. 67 for the ensuing year of 1957-58. Mr. Murphy, my assistant, and myself checked and rechecked the records of the office of the county superintendent of schools concerning the revenues of district No. 67 and afterwards we furnished the school board with the requested information. The figures given them are correct. These same figures have at all times been available to members of the board and to the public.

"In Friday's issue of the newspapers of Saline county appeared an erroneous quotation attributed to me by resigning members which in substance was that I had promised the board they would have a surplus of so much money at the end of this fiscal school year.

"During the meeting of the board and a committee representing the mothers from the Lincoln School area who were picketing Washington school, it was brought out that by virtue of having reduced their teaching staff by five members and having eliminated the cost of transportation the board would have approximately $18,500 less expenditure this school year compared to the last school year.

"My position as county superintendent of schools was to present information which the board had requested of the county office.

"They made the decision to close the second and fourth grades at Lincoln school and they made the decision to reopen the second and fourth grades at Lincoln school.

"I firmly believe that the education of our youth is the strongest safeguard of our democracy. As important as education is, it is still a delicate problem, particularly with grade school because we are dealing with children in their formative years.

"It behooves not only people engaged in school work but every citizen to approach the problems that arise in a fair and impartial manner, seeking at all times to better the school facilities and the opportunities for our children.

"In my position as county superintendent of schools, I shall continue to adhere to the principles which I believe are for the best interests of the schools of our county."

Approve Lower Coal Rail Rates

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Three more railroads today won Illinois Commerce Commission approval to reduce their rates by 63 cents a ton for hauling coal from Illinois mines to East St. Louis in train load lots of 25 cars or more.

The three railroads were the Illinois Central, the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio, and the New York Central.

Earlier the commission had approved the 63 cents reduction for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and the Missouri Pacific on train load lots.

At that time the Illinois Central and other railroads reduced their rates only 40 cents a ton.

But today the three railroads swung into line with the 63 cents reduction and other railroads were expected to follow.

The new reduced rates for the three railroads became effective today.

It was the railroads, and not the commission, which initiated the plan for reduced rates on train load lots of 25 cars or more. The rates apply to coal being hauled to East St. Louis and related and intermediate terminals.

Storm of Protest Over Tax Multipliers

you can't let assessed valuations go down forever or you'll get pretty far behind," Maynard said.

The 1957 legislature enacted a law which in effect would force "equalization" between assessments in all the townships in each county, largely because county boards of review have failed to keep tax assessments between townships fairly uniform.

The Illinois Taxpayers Federation and other groups have criticized the revenue department for not waiting until the new law takes partial effect next year before applying still more multipliers. The multipliers tend to make the inequalities between the townships in a county more extreme.

Increase in Gallatin

The nal county multipliers have been assigned for Calhoun, De Witt, Gallatin, Jasper, Marion, Perry and Randolph counties. All range from 1.1111 to 1.4492, except Gallatin, which is 3.7037 or an increase of more than 300 per cent. A multiplier of 1.1111 would mean about an 11 per cent increase in total valuation.

Tentative multipliers have been set for only 5 other counties; the others won't be fixed until December or later, with the higher population counties certified last.

Other examples of tentative county multipliers set so far include Champaign, 1.1765 for about 4 per cent increase; Winnebago and McLean, both 1.0870 or about a 8.7 per cent increase, and Knox 1.0989 or almost a 10 per cent increase.

Some counties where extremely high multipliers have been tentatively applied include Jackson, where it is 5.00000 or 400 per cent higher than local valuations; Jersey, 4.0000 or 300 per cent up, and Pike, 5.8824 or 488 per cent up.

First telephone was established in Arkansas in 1879.

Adlai Stevenson III Passes Bar Exams

SPRINGFIELD — Adlai Ewing Stevenson III, son of former governor and Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, today was certified for the practice of law before the Illinois bar.

Stevenson's name was among those of successful candidates who have been certified to the Illinois Supreme Court by state bar examiners.

The younger Stevenson is a graduate of the Harvard law school and a Marine Corps veteran. He entered the Marines after graduation from Harvard, became an officer and served in Korea. Stevenson married Miss Nancy Anderson of Louisville, Ky., in June, 1955.

Eisenhower Confers With Gov't Scientists

ference Wednesday morning.

The President and his advisers are under strong pressure to take a second look at the nation's missile program. U. S. scientists have indicated strongly they feel Russia possesses the intercontinental ballistic missile, a claim the administration played down.

Some of the scientists and leading members of congress are urging a step-up in the satellite and rocket programs to beat Russia to the moon and planets. They agreed that Russia has jumped in to a head start into space and this country can catch up only by spending enough money.

Such a program would demand a big increase in defense spending, and probably would wipe out all hope of a tax cut next year.

Stevenson Speaks Out

In Chicago, Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential candidate, accused the Eisenhower administration of "misleading" the nation about Russia's progress in the intercontinental missile field. He said "not just our pride but our security is at stake."

Rep. J. Vaughan Gary (D-Va.) joined several other lawmakers in demanding a sweeping congressional investigation of why the U. S. is "trailing" Russia in the guided missiles field. He said the administration has said repeatedly "we were far in advance of Russia in the development of modern weapons."

But Gary said the launching of the Russian satellite shows "conclusively this is not true."

Bull Pups Lose to Mt. Vernon, 41-7

The Harrisburg Bull Pups dropped a 41-7 freshman-sophomore football decision at Mt. Vernon last night. Only local touchdown came in the fourth period when Mt. Vernon fumbled and end John Donovan grabbed the pigskin, running 55 yards to score. A pass, John Stone to Larry Wise, was good for the extra point. Mt. Vernon scored two touchdowns in the first period on a 25-yard run by Coleman Carrodine and on a pass to Snyder. The score was 21-0 at halftime after Yearwood tallied in the second quarter on a long pass play. Yearwood and Carrodine scored again in the third to make the count 34-0 at the end of the period. Harrisburg's touchdown came with about four and a half minutes gone in the last frame, after which Lockwood went over from the two for Mt. Vernon. The Bull Pups entertain the Centralia freshman-sophomore crew at Taylor Field next Monday night at 7:00.

South Seven Roundup

West Frankfort Scores Three Times in First Quarter on Defensive Line Play

Two South Seven conference games were played last Friday night with three of the loop's members going outside the league for competition and the South Seven won two of the three. In conference play Mt. Vernon squeezed past Harrisburg 13-6 and West Frankfort swamped Marion 35-0.

Centralia won a fine 13-6 decision from Belleville, Herrin buried Chester under a 45-6 verdict while Benton suffered a 22-6 loss at Murphysboro. Scoring three TDs in the first quarter, while running but two plays from scrimmage, West Frankfort went on to score a 35-0 decision at the expense of winless Marion.

WF's first TD came early in the opening quarter when a punt try by Marion's Shotton was blocked. A couple of plays took the ball to the five-yard line, then quarterback Bruce Link hit the line for a TD. Converts 5 Straight Times.

A short time later Shotton again went back to punt and again it was blocked. This time WF fullback Dick Gore blocked the punt, gained control of the bouncing ball and raced for a TD.

Shotton could have sued his line for non-support as in the later stages of the opening frame he faded back to pass, WF linemen again poured through and blocked the pass try. Lineman Bill Kirk took the loose ball and crossed the TD stripe. Three TDs all as the result of strong defensive line play by the winners.

In the third quarter WF scored again, with Gore carrying the last nine yards and in the fourth frame WF's left halfback John Pappas scooted 15 yards for a score. Mike Henley, tackle, converted five consecutive times for the winners and now has a record of 12 conversions in 15 tries.

The Mt. Vernon-at-Harrisburg game was a story of one team—Mt. Vernon—getting out in front early, then managing to hang on for a close 13-6 win. Harrisburg Fans Complemented

Mt. Vernon's first TD was scored by Jim Eidson who grabbed a 26-yard pass from Pete Bouxein, to climax a 63-yard drive. The second TD was scored by speedster Glen Fleming who raced Belleville went ahead of the South Seven school with less than four minutes left in the first quarter on a 1-yard smash by Jerry Russell. The H. B. Taborn-coached crew held the 6-point lead until early in the fourth quarter. A pass, Ron Linder to Ton Eggers, advanced the ball to the one-yard line, then Lowell Stonecipher banged across and Bob Hight booted the PAT, giving Centralia a 7-6 lead. Late in the quarter Linder passed to Leon Carter for Centralia's second TD. Benton, the only South Seven school to lose outside the league, bowed 22-6 to unbeaten Murphysboro. Playing near-perfect ball the first half, Murphysboro held a 16-0 lead at the intermission. During those opening two quarters Murphysboro piled up 141 yards from rushing and 27 by passing. Benton's efforts amounted to a minus one yard, with no first downs. Fumble Stops Benton Drive

For the entire game Murphysboro gained 754 yards, including 50 by passing. Benton gained 175 yards, 102 on the ground. The first Murphysboro TD was scored on a 18-yard end sweep by Quarterback Lavender, who also kicked the placement. A bad pass from center, with Benton attempting to punt out from the end zone, gave M'boro a safety and a 9-0 lead before the opening quarter ended. A Lavender to Crombar pass, covering 13 yards, scored Murphysboro's second TD and Lavender again converted. Murphysboro went in front 22-0 in the third quarter when Lavender scored on a quarterback sneak from 2 yards out. Benton broke into the scoring column on a 53-yard pass from Wills to Gamble. Benton was threatening to score again late in the game, but a fumble stopped the drive less than 10 yards from the end zone.

Series Play Moves Back To Yankee Stadium; Braves Now 2-1 Favorites to Win

NEW YORK (UP)—Those amazing Braves were established as 2-1 favorites over the New York Yankees today because everything is going their way to whip the "big city boys" and make Milwaukee the baseball capital of the world. With Mickey Mantle still a huge question-mark and Casey Stengel in desperate pitching straits, the National League champions take the Series back to Yankee Stadium Wednesday riding a wave of enthusiasm that hasn't been matched in recent Series history.

Stengel's worst fears have materialized with Bill Skowron almost certainly out of the Series and Mantle probably due only for spot duty. This is what Stengel worried might happen in his pre-Series analyses because without those two sluggers, it doesn't seem possible he can match the Braves' hitters.

In addition, Braves manager Fred Haney has three star pitchers ready for the final two games—18-game winner Bob Buhl and "Yankee killer" Lew Burdette for starts with 21-game winner Warren Spahn also available. In fact, there was some expert thought that Haney might go with Gene Conley, the six-foot, eight-inch sidearm with the tricky motion, in Wednesday's sixth—and possibly final—game.

Stengel's Back To Wall Stengel, backed to the wall strategically, has to play "scared baseball." He's announced he'll come back with fireballer Bob Turley in the sixth game but he knows he must use every available pitcher for relief—and that includes Whitey Ford.

So far, Ford is the only Yankee pitcher who really has looked good against the Braves and he was beaten, 1-0, Monday when ex-Yankee farmhand Burdette out-pitched him in a brilliant duel. Burdette, whom the Yankees traded in the 1951 deal for Johnny Sain, came back to haunt his old bosses with a sparkling seven-hitter that topped his effort in the 4-2, second-game Milwaukee triumph. Lew didn't let a Yankee reach third base and closed brilliantly by striking out two batters in the ninth and getting Yogi Berra on a 15-foot pop fly for the final out after Gil McDougald singled to keep New York alive.

Ford appeared every bit as good as Burdette, especially in the early going, but the breaks went against him—as they so rarely do for the Yankees. The first, of course, was Eddie Mathews' infield hit—which second-baseman Jerry Coleman admitted he "misjudged." Then came a bloop single by Hank Aaron that sent Mathews to third and a clean sharp single to right field by Joe Adcock.

It remained for the Yankees, especially Stengel, to come up with the most controversial strategy the Series has seen so far. With one out, Coleman singled in the bottom of the eighth and the wheels started turning in Stengel's head. Moments later Mantle appeared out of the Yankee dugout and it seemed certain that he was going to bat for Ford.

But the crowd of 45,811 was astonished when Mantle went in to run for Coleman and Elston Howard, who tied Sunday's game with a three-run ninth-inning homer, was the pinch-hitter for Ford. Howard was called out on strikes and then Mantle was out stealing when Hank Bauer missed Burdette's first pitch to him.

The only other anxious moment for Burdette, the controversial right hander who had a 17-9 record during the N. L. season, came when McDougald singled and brought up Berra with a chance to win it with a homer. But Yogi's effort was a feeble pop that Mathews squeezed to a pulp only a few feet from the plate.
